IBM is pleased to invite you to the 2009 IBM Software Technical Conference.

Its a conference filled with deep technical content around the IBM family of products and related products that has been designed to meet your requirements. In addition to traditional lectures and hands-on lab sessions, attendees learned about real world scenarios, implementation details, case studies and best practices from recognized leaders in the field. We also included lectures from key IBM architects on future directions of the IBM Software Group product portfolio. You can opt for a 2 or 4 day pass to the conference where there are many opportunities to network with other technical experts like you.
